Biosecurity Act 2015

Biosecurity is the protection of our economy, environment and community from the negative impacts of pests, diseases, weeds and contaminants.

From 1 July 2017, how the government, industry and the community manage biosecurity in NSW is changing. The Biosecurity Act 2015 replaces wholly or in part 14 separate pieces of biosecurity related legislation. By streamlining these into a single Act, we are reducing red tape, simplifying existing policies and procedures and facilitating greater flexibility in how we manage biosecurity risks the focus is on risk and achieving outcomes.

The Biosecurity Act introduces the General Biosecurity Duty: Any land managers and users of land have a responsibility for managing weed biosecurity risks that they know about or could reasonably be expected to know about. This applies to all land within NSW and all waters within the limits of the State.

Be informed of the legislation changes that may apply to your land. For more information contact your local Weed Officers at council@narrabri.nsw.gov.au
